INTER-GENERATIONAL RACIAL HARMONY DAY CELEBRATION

On 21 July, schools in Singapore observed the 51st anniversary of the 1964 racial riots with Racial Harmony Day celebrated in varying fashions. The historical event has helped to promote inter-racial understanding among students and is an integral part of Singapore's national education. Apart from promoting senior volunteerism, this important celebration is one of RSVP's National Senior Volunteer Month activities. MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Members would have noticed that RSVP has been featured quite often these days in the English and Chinese newspapers. This was not by accident. FOOD DISTRIBUTION WITH NAN HUA PRIMARY SCHOOL STUDENTS

RSVP has embarked on a number of inter-generational volunteering programmes with various schools since its inception. Intergenerational programmes are social vehicles that offer the younger and older generations the opportunities to interact, support each other and share their talents and resources to benefit the less privileged community. On 16 July, 80 Primary four students from Nan Hua Primary School, five parent volunteers and 20 RSVP senior volunteers came together with a common mission - to distribute essential food items to some 150 needy families in Clementi.
